The direct reasons are that the world wheat supply began to look much better because of good crop prospects, increased production abroad and a sharply lessening foreign need for our grain.

But this in itself would not have tumbled prices so dramatically if prices were not so high and were there not so much consumer resistance to them.

Many economists believe that the commodity inflation has been checked effectively, and that prices will adjust themselves at new levels more in line with the rest of the economy.

The consumer asks two big questions: What does this price fall mean to me, and does it mean a recession?

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(AP)—The American consumer made a major assault on inflation last week, and scored a major victory.

The battle is not yet over, and gains may be lost. But the consumer should feel good about the week's developments.

He didn't know he was fighting the battle at all, but he was. He began the fight quietly last fall when he decided many prices at the store counters were too high, and tapered off his buying.

Other Factors

There are a hundred other factors in the commodity price drop more immediate in their effect, and they are important. But to estimate long-range meaning it is necessary to look backward for long-range causes.

been the largest bubbles. They had to break first.

Although the amount of money passing over counters has been at record highs, the amount of actual goods turned over has been declining in important fields. In short, the consumer has been buying less. And he has been turning more and more to cheaper goods.

Grain prices have been declining since mid-January, but the trend was not necessarily important un-

Final Report On March Of Dimes Scheduled Soon

The 1948 March of Dimes drive was past history Monday, all that remained being an announcement as to how much.

W. H. Cruse, county director, said Monday it would be "several days" before a final figure on the amount raised by Corsicana and Navarro county can be ascertained.

the amount raised by Corsicana and Navarro county can be ascertained.

Little collection boxes scattered through the business district have yet to be emptied. The senior and junior high schools have not reported, and several rural collections have not been brought in, Cruse said.

School children and employees of varous firms helped materially with the drive.

The Emhouse school, for instance, gathered in $41. In Corsicana, the Robert E. Lee school pupils donated $43.05, and the Sam Houston school, $62.85. Travis school gave $105.20.

Employees of Duke and Ayres chipped in $2.25. Those of Woolworth Co. gave $13. McLellan's employee gave $12.80.

The following additional contributions were announced by Cruse:

Rex Bounds, $5.00; Mr. and Mrs.

ducted by the Rev. F. A. Fischer, pastor of the Methodist church, and Rev. Ben Stohler of the First Baptist church.

Pallbearers were F. B. Peyton, J. E. Lott. Ernest Steward, L. J. Davis, Clyde Glazener and Frank Aultman of Fairfield, and Harold Geppert and John Melton of Teague. Interment was in the Fairfield cemetery.

Survivors are one son, Marion Day of Dallas, and two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Scruggs, aged Mrs. F. B. Clark of Dallas, and two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Scruggs, aged Mrs. W. F. The Corsicana Tiger basketballers strengthened their first division position Friday night in Waxahachie, beating the Indians 38-31 for their second straight victory of the season over the Tribe, As the score indicates, the game was hotly contested, and the Indians hung on tenaciously, behind most of the time, but never so far behind as to give the Tigers a sense of comfort.

The Cubs had an easier time of it, beating the Papooses 37-20, behind the sharpshooting of Charles Bristow, who hit the basket for 10 points.

Bill Davis' 14 points was high for the Bengals, and Martin's 16 was high for Waxahachie.

Choose The Right Medicine!

By W. P. BROWN Of Johnson's Pharmacy

Certain prepared medicines are sold for the cure of many common ailments. These preparations often contain drugs which are of no value, or drugs which may cause unfavorable reaction.

But the only one who can correctly prescribe the medicine you require is your trained physician. And when medicine is needed he will give you a prescription because it will contain just the fresh potent drugs for your individual needs.

When a competent druggist compounds a prescription for you he is certain that you are buying medicine that has positive value.
